

Unbearable feelings of Angelo

We are aware that the love we are searching for is dangerous. Right now, we feel trapped in this cycle. It seems inevitable that we will continue seeking another source of hope, a new partner, and the blinding light of love, only to repeat the same mistake again. No matter what we do, it feels like nothing changes.

We keep ourselves busy to avoid acknowledging our loneliness and the fear of losing ourselves in our thoughts. Everything we did in the past is already gone, leaving us with only half of our hearts and memories that we need to let go of. It is essential to detach ourselves from those memories, built on the love we had for each other. During our journey, we listen to music, trying to distract ourselves from overthinking, as if the music listens to us as much as we listen to it. We struggle to find our way back on our feet and convince ourselves that everything will be fine once we heal the still-aching wounds.

They say, 'Everything happens for a reason,' but for us, we are left helpless and confused, not understanding the meaning behind those 'reasons' they speak of because they never explained it. They departed without saying goodbye, leaving us to bear it all. Only we can help ourselves from drowning in the sea of unanswered questions. Why must we suffer like this? It wasn't us who initiated this situation; it was them. Our only desire was to escape from a world that abandoned us and start a new chapter.

At present, we are scared to pursue love again because the person we once loved hurt us deeply. We fear being left alone once more due to those individuals who betrayed our trust. Love, while a fortress of emotions, has weakened us in every way. We must find a way to break free from its grip and become stronger than the love that restrains us from seeking love again.